Human Food Made with Cultured Animal Cells Inventory

Updated June 2023

The inventory of completed pre-market consultations for human food made with cultured cells provides the following information about any human food product that has completed a pre-market consultation with the FDA:

- Description of the food and species of origin
- File number that the FDA has assigned to the pre-market consultation
- Sponsor's final submission in the consultation explaining their basis for concluding that the cultured cell material is safe for use as human food
- Letter that the FDA sent in response to the sponsor at the completion of the pre-market consultation
- Scientific memo that documents the FDA's evaluation of the sponsor's final submission
